

An Unforgettable Dream

Last night, I had an unforgettable dream. The dream was about a girl whose name was Angel. She was going to die soon as she was a patient of cancer. And in the same hospital, I was admitted because I tried to kill myself. I was not happy with my family, I fought with my parents every time they did not have enough money to fulfill my wishes. I was a very mean and selfish girl. I did not care how they earned the money but just asked them for money whenever I needed. I was not happy with what I had and wanted to end my life.

Soon after I met Angel in the hospital, I changed my mind. She tried her very best to live. She tried her best to be with her family most of the time, gave them the happiness before she died so that they could live with her memories. She is not here anymore but her words are always in my heart. She told me that life is precious, and that we should all treasure our lives. Even though our parents are not rich enough to fulfill our needs, we could never forget the love and happiness that they give us.

Just like her name, Angel came to my life like an angel. I promised her that I will try my very best to keep my parents happy and be happy in what I have. Suddenly, I saw a ray in front of my eyes. I woke up and realized that it was just a dream. As fast as I could, I ran near to my father and my mother to give them a big hug and said, 'I love you'. What an unforgettable dream!
