

Kyra Villanueva 2D (23)

Great Time in Thailand

Last Christmas, my friends and I went to Thailand to spend our Christmas holiday there. On our first day, we went to a beautiful beach in Thailand. The weather was really hot and the beach was really crowded. I could tell that it was a really nice beach and a tourist attraction because the water was really clean, the sand was white and the environment was good. We really enjoyed the fresh air and the beautiful view of the high mountains.

We saw children playing volleyball and some were taking pictures. My friends decided to go swimming but some of us didn't want to swim because we forgot to bring our swimsuits. So, we went to the information desk to get some more information about the activities at the beach. The man said that there would be a party that night and everyone was invited and welcome to join the fun. So everyone was excited and happy.

After hearing that there was a party, we went back to the hotel first and found something to wear. After a few hours, it was night time already. When we were on our way back to the beach, suddenly my friend Mary shouted, "Look! It's a monkey!" We thought we saw a big monkey. My friend John said, "It's too big to be a monkey." We all felt nervous and anxious at the same time. So, we followed the monkey to check if someone was tricking us because it was really impossible for a monkey to be that big. So we slowly followed him, but suddenly he's gone. My friends were nervous so they asked us to go back to the party and forget about the big monkey we saw. So when we were turning back suddenly the monkey appeared from the tree. Then we saw that he had human hands and toes. So it wasn't really a monkey. It was just a little kid making fun of us. We were all shocked, but he was laughing at us. He said that we didn't have to be scared and said sorry to us.

After that, we said, "It's okay, we understand." We invited him to come with us to the party. He said he'd love to. So, we continued walking. Finally, we got to the party. There were a lot of people. We saw plenty of children dancing and there were also some games for everyone to play. We ate a lot of food such as pizza and spaghetti.

I really enjoyed that day so much. The party was great and we met new friends from different countries also. I hope we could still communicate with each other when I go back to Hong Kong. That's it for now. I will write again tomorrow!

