As I went to sleep one night, I realised I had woken up in another world! This land was called Wonderland. I had woken up on a grass field. Not knowing what to do, I started walking, looking for anyone or anything to help me back to my own world. Suddenly, I saw a man at a table, dressed in a suit with add colours and patterns, wearing a top hat, dyed hair and makeup. He was The Mad Hatter.

I then went on to tell him what had happen and asked him for help. He said to me "If you beat me in a game of poker, I shall open a portal home for you'. That was his condition to help me.

I didn't know much about poker but being eager to go home I gave it my best shot and surprisingly, I won! But the Mad Hatter was not happy at all as he was known for being unbeatable. He then tried to lock me in a magical cage to trap me in wonderland forever! I was terrified. I wanted to curse Mad Hatter for breaking his own conditions. I asked myself, "How can he cheat? How can he break his own conditions?" I couldn't think of any new ideas to unlock the cage.

Yet luck was on my side once again as the Queen of Hearts saw this and sent her royal guards to arrest the Mad Hatter. I thanked the Queen of Heart as she gave me a warm hug. She then opened a portal back to my world. I waved her goodbye before going through the portal and back to my world. After going through the portal. I woke up back in my bed in my world.
